My app has a table view in a ViewController that refreshes at regular intervals using a method that is called from ViewDidLoad(). However, my table view never gets refreshed. If it is not possible, is there a better way to reload the table view without having to restart the app? The method is called from an IntentService and just updates the value of an int variable. ViewDidLoad() method: foreach(int i in Submenu.SubMenu1) { SubMenu.SubMenu1

Helps you solve booting problem and fix DFU black screen issue. It also supports up to iOS 11, in fact, latest iOS versions have so many issues and problems. One click to install iOS software and repair any issues. Improve battery life and speed up the device. With a single click, the device can be wiped and re-set up as new.

Compatible to fix WiFi issues and connect the device to hotspot. Helps you restore to earlier firmware and software, recover from iOS files and folders, fix iCloud and Xcode issues and many other. What's New This version implements a redesigned interface, which now has a clean and modern look. It also adds the option to change the factory test mode, recovery mode and even to delete unwanted games and applications Added option to use iCloud app lock to help you keep the device safe. Fixed some issues. How to Use ReiBoot Firstly, you will need to make sure that you've successfully connected your iOS device to the computer. You can do so either by plugging it into the computer USB port using your own USB cable, or by connecting it to the computer using a "Thunderbolt to USB Adapter". As soon as you've successfully paired the device, you will need to launch ReiBoot app on your computer. However, you can download it from the link provided below the description. Once you've done that, it's time to test what you're actually looking for. To confirm that the iOS device is in a proper state, you can choose to either check the state of "Recovery" or to turn on "Factory Test" mode. As you can see, there are only two options, which are pretty obvious. However, should you need some inspiration, you can check out the screenshots attached below the step-by-step guide. When you're done, press the "Next" button in order to continue. Moving on to the next step, you will need to choose between using the default iCloud account or your alternative iCloud account. If you're wondering what that is, the "AppleID" is the default iCloud account, while the alternate account is the one you need to create in order to gain access to the iCloud. If you're fine with using the default
