I also don't see the calendar color for holidays selected in the color settings. Uricad Seguridad Y Salud 16: I want your help to fix this issue. do you know how to fix this issue. In the help it says that this issue is not fixed yet. I want to know in advance where is the bug to fix this issue before it going into this case. A: It seems the calendar is not ready to be used in the current build. I recommend to wait before trying to use the calendar. You can check this if your computer can show one specific application or if you see a grey icon in the top right corner of the desktop. If I am wrong you can install a previous build of Ubuntu here and start from that build. If you had the same issue try the following: Check and close all other calendar applications. Try to use the calendar and close any open calendar apps after opening. Reboot your computer. If the problem still occurs then try the following: Try Ubuntu 16.04 and 16.10 builds. You can find them at After installing the build open the settings in the top right corner of the desktop. Open the calendar app if the new build works then write a comment here. If you want to report a bug against the new build then open a new bug with the Ubuntu package name gnome-calendar-common Q: Multisite network with one login for all sites I've setup a multisite network, and I'm trying to set up a network login that will login all the sites. When users login to one site they should then be directed to the home page of that site, so I need to catch that users first log in action and then make the redirect.
