Ask HN: how do you handle unmaintained software? - framelord I used to have a few pieces of software that I'd been planning to maintain, but I stopped for various reasons. Now its going to be out of production and unmaintained. I'm starting to think about refactoring it into a Rails app, but how do you handle unmaintained software that you've invested time into creating?

===== duiker101 I think you should do as with any existing software "whatever you want". If you decide to move on it might be better to move it to something you are more comfortable with or something that doesn't takes the same time to maintain. ~~~ framelord Well thats a good idea I should test it
