A: To get to the bottom of this, you need to understand what is going on inside Visual CertExam Suite. I'll start with this, as it is a bit technical. You are seeing questions from both the Microsoft and Adobe Exam Systems, and what is happening is that Visual CertExam Suite has to convert them to a file format that can be read by our viewer. Microsoft Exam Files (.mdf) are used for their SCORE mode, where each "question" consists of a "score" on a scale of -1 to +1. Each question is a single line, for example: . Microsoft also has a folder, called VCEN, which contains a different type of file known as an "ets" file. An ets file contains the question and an answer, stored as a single line per answer. For example, the.ets file for question 1 might look like: . When you play back a Microsoft question, the score is taken from the.mdf version, not the.ets version. Then there is Adobe's ANKI format. Their exams are in.anki format, and when the user plays the file, the score is taken from that file. Visual CertExam Suite is converting them to the appropriate file types, which is why you are seeing so many of them. You can have Visual CertExam Suite open your.mdf files, and open the VCEN file to see the.ets files, which will contain the same "question". It is also possible that the exact same question is in both files and VCE is picking one randomly, which is why you are seeing different questions, but I doubt that is the case. It can also be possible that the Adobe exams do not have all questions converted to.anki format (and thus are not playable). For more information, I'd suggest you check out this Visual CertExam Suite Knowledge Base article. It has a lot of information about both the Microsoft and Adobe file types, and also includes additional information about what the questions are. Q: Why does `strip` remove stuff more than expected? This one seems like a dupe of Removing Unicode in perl and/or perl, but I wasn't able to find an answer in either of those threads. Here is a simple code that should remove everything except the first letter of the word. print "string to remove characters from", " ";

Professional Certificate in Visual Studio. With Exam Simulator for Mobile, you will be able to prepare for your exams from the road. Company Licensing Need a customized trainingÂ .Friday, October 25, 2009 I'm a company flipper. I sold my house in September and bought a new one in October. I got a chance to take a short break from business for a while and I needed it. I'm still not really used to the idea of managing a small business, it's not as easy as I expected it to be. But now I'm back to it. I started out looking for a house that I could rent for 3-4 years and renovate it. I ended up buying a house that I could easily fix up and turn into a real estate rental. The house is a fixer upper. Needs a bit of work to be ready to move in, but it's got a lot of potential and I don't have to pay for a house while I'm renovating. So what exactly are some of the projects that I'm hoping to do in the next few weeks? That's a lot to list! I'll list a few in order of importance: Finish the project that I started last summer. The exterior paint and the drywall. This one is the biggie, no pun intended. Renovate the kitchen and replace my old flooring. While I bought the house, I never installed the new flooring because I was busy getting organized. I'll have to start that project during the day because I'll need to clear my schedule to make it happen. Plus I have to try to shop before the new flooring comes. Coat the front door and paint the porch. If all goes well, I could be done with the exterior work early this year and save a lot of money. Plant some flowers in the front and back yards and have them ready for spring and summer. At the moment, I'm growing a few bulbs, but I'm still working on getting them to do what I want them to do. Put up some exterior shutters for the porches. Upgrade my sprinkler system from a drip system to a zone system and my irrigation system. Change the HVAC unit. I want to go to a swamp cooler and heat pump system. Remove the deck and install a new one. Change the bathroom fixtures and fixtures in the kitchen. 1cdb36666d

NetHack and the Art of Adventuring - maverhick ====== mkramlich Great article and interesting read. A little unclear as to the difference between NetHack and Dungeon Crawl Stone Soup, which is a pretty good text- based dungeon exploration game. ~~~ rbanffy IIRC, both are free. IIRC, the first one is a little more polished, because it was more of a game in the design phase. Dungeon Crawl was fully written when NetHack was being evolved. ~~~ mkramlich Yep. They're both free, and they're good free games (both are OSS/FOSS, too, same last time I checked). I think NetHack has had some more updates, such as more tutorial screens, help screens, etc. ------ dstein This is brilliant. I particularly liked this line: "I enjoy exploring the deepest levels of dungeons and not unlike other roguelikes I find myself just typing in some code with little expectation of what it will do or if it will even work." ------ cwp Dupe: Q: Explain this Python code for the modulo operator Can someone explain this code to me in detail? Are the last two lines always true? Can they ever be false? Not sure what I'm trying to figure out! Any help is much appreciated. def mod_number(number):
